ADHESIVE UNITS

Alien Property Custodian

Application filed March 10, 1942

Adhesive units are known; but it is a disadvantage that they cannot be made adhesive on both sides without separating them by a detachable non-adhesive cover strip.

By the new adhesive unit the adhesive parts are so arranged that they do not touch each other, thereby they can rolled up or disposed in layers without a cover strip. In Figs. 1 and 2 is designed the strip with a the adhesive part with b.
