Summary

Main entry: Burroughs, William S.

Size: 17 linear feet (150)

Source: Purchased from Robert and Carol Jackson (Cleveland, Ohio), in 2005.

Abstract: The William S. Burroughs “Vaduz” Archive was organized during two periods of activity, in 1965, by Burroughs himself, and in 1972 by Burroughs and his friends Brion Gysin, the Swiss-Canadian painter, and Barry Miles, a Burroughs biographer. The immediate cause of the 1972 effort was the purchase offer of a Liechtenstein financier, Roberto Altman, who wished to assist Burroughs financially. After the papers were organized, they were shipped to Altman's Liechtenstein home in the town of Vaduz, where they remained sealed in their cartons, inaccessible to researchers. It was in this sealed condition that they were sold to Robert and Carol Jackson of Cleveland, Ohio. In 2004, the Jacksons sold them to the New York Public Library, where they became part of the Berg Collection.

Miles had also compiled a descriptive catalog of the papers, which was published as A Descriptive Catalog of the William S. Burroughs Archive (London: Covent Garden Press for Barry Miles Associates, William Burroughs, and Brion Gysin, 1973). The term “Folios” used in the finding aid follows the usage in the Burroughs Catalogue. Burroughs, in 1965, and then, in 1972, Burroughs, Gysin, and Miles divided the manuscripts and typescripts of Burroughs's works and notes into 169 collections of papers which they placed in consecutively numbered folders and portfolios of various sizes. Burroughs had inscribed headings on them and sometimes had affixed collages to their front covers. The papers are, for the most part, untitled, and it is Burroughs's headings, reproduced in the Catalogue as well as in the finding aid that tells us their subject matter. Folios 1-169 comprise the finding aid's Series I. Though the Catalogue places the Correspondence files first, the finding aid follows the archival practice of placing an author's correspondence after the works. In some instances, in order to maintain Burroughs's arrangement, correspondence which accompanied drafts of some works was not removed to the Correspondence Series. Scope notes will alert the researcher to their presence.

Biographical note
William S. Burroughs (1914-1997), American novelist, essayist and social critic. The bulk of his work was semi-autobiographical and derived from his experiences both as a heroin addict and as close friend and de facto elder statesmen to the writers of the Beat Generation, including Jack Kerouac and Allen Ginsberg. Burroughs' writing was subversive and often wildly experimental. He is best known for Naked Lunch, Junky and Queer, novels that offer provocative and unsentimental accounts of American counterculture, drug use and crime.

Burroughs was born in St. Louis, Missouri on February 5, 1914, to Laura Lee and Mortimer Burroughs, grandson and namesake of William S. Burroughs, the inventor of the first marketable adding machine. Burroughs knew from a young age both that he was homosexual and that he wanted to be a writer, and by his own account felt constrained by his parents' prominent position in St. Louis society. He enrolled at Harvard in 1932. After college, Burroughs traveled to Europe and studied medicine at the University of Vienna. He also met and married Ilse Krabbe in Dubrovnik to aid her escape from the Nazis (the marriage was dissolved upon their arrival in the U.S.). In 1939 Burroughs enrolled in an archaeology program at Harvard. There, he penned the story “Twilight's Last Gleaming” with St. Louis friend Kells Elvins before a brief confinement under psychiatric care.

In the Spring of 1943, Burroughs returned to New York with Lucien Carr, another old friend from St. Louis. Carr introduced Burroughs to Allen Ginsberg and Jack Kerouac. With Kerouac, Burroughs wrote And the Hippos Were Boiled in Their Tanks (2008), an early draft of which is in the Berg's Jack Kerouac Archive under Kerouac's working title, "I wish I were you (1945) Philip Tourian story". Burroughs' son (Joan Vollmer was the mother), William "Billy" Burroughs, was born in 1947. In 1949, Burroughs, Vollmer and Billy moved with Vollmer's daughter to Mexico City, where Burroughs wrote Junky, a semi-autobiographical depiction of heroin addiction (Burroughs had been taking the drug since the mid-forties). Junky was published as a paperback in 1953 (as Junkie), under the pseudonym William Lee. It was also in Mexico City that Burroughs, in 1951, had accidentally killed Vollmer at a party, while trying to shoot an apple off her head.

Burroughs wrote Queer shortly thereafter (though it was not published until 1985), which examined his homosexuality and addressed the events surrounding the shooting of Vollmer. In the months after the shooting, Burroughs (who was released from jail after posting bond) travelled in South America for several months, where he experimented with the hallucinogen yage. Burroughs' correspondence with Ginsberg at this time was later published as The Yage Letters (1963). He spent the next four years in Tangier, working on a manuscript that would later be published as Naked Lunch (1959). After moving from Tangier to Paris, Burroughs met artist Brion Gysin, whose "cut-up" collage techniques Burroughs admired and incorporated into the novel Naked Lunch. Kerouac's and Ginsberg's editorial assistance were crucial in extracting the novel from the undifferentiated mass of typescript and manuscript material that Burroughs called the "word hoard". The cut-up aesthetic, whereby Burroughs cut and pasted fragments of text to enhance a non-linear narrative and to mitigate the effects of the writer's conditioned mind (this concern motivated his embrace of Scientology for several years in the early 1960's), became a feature of much of his later work. He saw in this method a similarity to T.S. Eliot's juxtaposition of disparate pieces of conversation and fragments of thought in the poem "The Waste Land". The publication of Naked Lunch was controversial, chiefly because of its explicit sexuality, and Burroughs was prosecuted on obscenity charges (he was later cleared by Massachusetts courts). Reviews expressing both delight and disgust had greeted the book's publication, but by 1965, it had established itself as a classic of the avant-garde canon, and even a few "establishment" literary figures, like Mary McCarthy, Herbert Gold, and Norman Mailer, regarded it as a significant contribution to contemporary literature.

Publication of three books which occasionally incorporate the cut-up technique followed, also extracted from the "word hoard": The Soft Machine (1961), The Ticket That Exploded (1962), and Nova Express (1964). The Wild Boys: A Book of the Dead (conceived by the author as a kind of "homosexual Peter Pan") and its sequel, Port of Saints were published in 1971 and 1973 respectively. Burroughs lived in Paris and London for the next decade, publishing with small literary presses to support his heroin habit before returning a third time to New York in 1974. He spent the next several years alternating between New York and Colorado, where he lectured at Ginsberg's Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics, and cared for his son Billy, suffering from liver cirrhosis. Billy died in 1981.

That same year, Burroughs moved to Lawrence, Kansas, and published Cities of the Red Night. In 1983 he was inducted into the American Academy of Arts and Letters. By the early 1980's, the author was again addicted to heroin, and though off the drug for short phases, remained addicted until his death in 1997. In Kansas, he published The Place of Dead Roads (1983) and The Western Lands (1987). By the late 1980's, Burroughs had become something of a cultural icon, and was admired by writers, artists, actors, and alternative rock musicians, including Thomas Pynchon, Terry Southern, Susan Sontag, Andy Warhol, Jean-Michel Basquiat, Patti Smith, Mick Jagger, Lou Reed, and Billy Idol; those with whom he collaborated include Kurt Cobain, Laurie Anderson, Gus Van Sant, and Robert Wilson. Shortly before Burroughs' death, James Wolcott wrote a glowing review of his oeuvre in The New Yorker, and Robert Cohen wrote in the New York Times Book Review that Burroughs was "arguably the most influential American prose writer of the last 40 years" among young American writers. In addition to his novels, Burroughs produced a large body of cultural criticism and autobiographical works, including a detailed description of his own dreams. He died of a heart attack on August 2, 1997.

Scope and content note

Among the materials included in the archive are: correspondence, manuscripts, magazines, photographs, audiotapes, exercise books and cut-ups. The material relates to apomorphine, scientology, dreams, biofeedback and to the composition of Burroughs' Dream Diary, Soft Machine, Naked Lunch, Queer, The Wild Boys, Dead Fingers Talk, Nova Express, The Revised Boy Scout Manual and The Job. A substantial part of this archive derives from time spent by William S. Burroughs either living in or visiting the following places: London, Tangiers, Marrakesh, Paris and New York City.

Arrangement note

The William S. Burroughs Papers are organized in the following series:

Series I: Folios, dates
Series II: Scientology
Series III: Correspondence
Series IV: Photographic Files
Series V: Audio Material
Series descriptions and container list

Series I: Folios, dates

Series I consists of 169 "folios" containing manuscript material, proofs and occasional incoming and outgoing correspondence related thematically to the folio material it accompanies (for the bulk of the correspondence, see Series II). The original order as set forth in the descriptive catalogue of the William S. Burroughs Archive has been preserved in this series; departures from the descriptive catalogue were made only to document additional material omitted in Miles' description or to correct inaccuracies in names, dates and page counts.

Included here are folios related to William S. Burroughs works such as Queer, Wild Boys, Naked Lunch, Dead Fingers Talk, Soft Machine, Exterminator & Minutes to Go, Last Words of Dutch Schultz, Nova Express, Ticket That Exploded, The Third Mind (written with Brion Gysin) and The Job.

Some folios relate to particular subjects (e.g., apomorphine, biofeedback, dreams). Other folios contain material composed during a particular time / place (e.g., folios "Paris 1960-1961 and Summer 1961, Villa Muniria"). Several folios are devoted to William S. Burroughs's cut-ups and "word horde." Additional material includes a diary, 300 contact photographs of Burroughs with Brion Gysin, supporting tear sheets, Xeroxes, reviews, and holographs / typescripts by other authors. The bulk of the material dates from 1952 to 1972.

| 7   | 34  | Item 1, "the hallucinated have...". Typescript with Jean Fanchette's instructions to the printer (in French) on same pages. Fanchette was the publisher. The final transcript of their contributions by all four authors was used in the preparation of this book and consequently this transcript is on 4 different page stocks and sizes and in various typefaces of the author's machines. Companion pages to those finally chosen by WB to be in the book are present in the Minutes To Go folios. (71 leaves.)

Numbers refer to the page number in the published book, Two Cities Edition. Autograph pagination 2-26, break of one number in pagination but only a mistake in numbering, the MTG numbers run 25-26 at this point, 28-72, 72a, that is to say page 27 is not missing. Pages 28-30 have 18 lines annotated in WB autograph, MTG numbers 26-28. Page 55, Corso's lines are in English in typescript but crossed out and changed to the French as in the book. Pages 67-69 have 16 lines annotated in WB autograph, MTG numbers 59-61. Page 72a is p47 in MTG. Gregory Corso's contribution on p63 of MTG: "Note For My Contribution To The Cut-Up System" is in autograph mss and was set by the printer from autograph mss.

Item 1, ““Fight tuberculosis, folks.”...”. First page proofs gallys from Telegraph. Published in Weekend Telegraph (Color Magazine) 132:46. Included free with the Daily Telegraph, No. 34, 825. London, April 14, 1967 (2 leaves.) A copy of the magazine appears in the magazine listing of these archives. Material relating to this text appears in the folios of this archive prior to folio 37, however the actual text may be included in a later folio.
Item 2, original folio folder, with typed contents list. (1 folder, 1 leaf.)

Folio 38 The Soft Machine

The galley proofs are oversize. There are corrections on most pages though not by WSB.

Folio 39 Dead Fingers Talk

Item 1, “Ticket That Exploded” Olympia Press, Paris. Corrected page proofs, in WB autograph. The pages which are missing from this corrected proof copy are those which eventually were stuck into the cut-up comprising the final mss for “Dead Fingers Talk”. The above is of dual interest, both as cut-up material for D.F.T. and also as corrected proofs of an Olympia edition. (112 leaves.)

There are 82 complete pages, 14 1/2 or fragmentary pages identifiable by page numbers, 15 1/2 or fragmentary pages from top of page which would need to be compared with the book to find original pagination. There are about 100 lines containing annotation in WB autograph.

2 Item 2, “Long Pigs I...” Cut-up remains of a copy of “Naked Lunch”, 1st Olympia Press edition. (92 leaves.)

Many pages are in a fragmentary state and there are about 60 fragments which are in addition to those remaining in the book. Many lines which have been cut out have been underlined or encircled but no count was made of these.

3 Item 3, “(Boys senses clicked...”. Approximately 60 fragments of typescript. (127 leaves (partial)) (There is some annotation and underlining.)

4 Item 4, “mix on screen...”. Typescript (carbon). (1 leaf.) (There is autograph pagination: 37.)

Series III: Correspondence

Series III consists of 45 files of correspondence (bulk dates 1955-1972). With the exception of files C1-7 (see scope note, below), the integrity of individual correspondence files has been maintained in accordance with the organization of the descriptive catalogue of the William S. Burroughs Archive. As such, the archive lacks the usual division of “outgoing” and “incoming” correspondence; carbons of letters written by WSB, letters written to WSB, and correspondence to and from other correspondents excepting WSB have been kept in the order listed in the descriptive catalog.

Correspondence includes letters of bibliographic interest, including material to and from William S. Burroughs’ agents and both foreign and domestic publishers, including Maurice Girodias of Olympia Press, Grove Press, Jonathan Cape and John Calder; correspondence with writers and artists including Paul Bowles, David Budd, Gregory Corso, Rolf Gunter-Dienst, Lawrence Ferlinghetti, Charles Henri Ford, Allen Ginsberg, John Giorno, Brion Gysin, Jack Kerouac, Timothy Leary, Harold Norse, Jeff Nuttall, Ron Padgett, Claude Pelieu, David Prentice, Terry Southern and Heathcote Williams; correspondence with friends and family, including Ian Sommerville, Kells Elvins, William S. Burroughs Jr., Mortimer Burroughs Sr., Mortimer Burroughs Jr. and Laura Lee Burroughs, and correspondence with scientologists and readers.

C1-7 Miscellaneous Files of Undocumented Correspondence.

C1 files 1-7 as identified in the descriptive catalogue, page 14, have been integrated to create one file, divided into ten parts. All correspondence within these subsections is arranged alphabetically by sender, where possible.

Series IV: Photographic Files

This series comprises approximately 1,000 photographs, of which approximately 700 were taken by William S. Burroughs (Miles, Catalogue of the William S. Burroughs Archive). The order is consistent with the original arrangement set forth in the William S. Burroughs descriptive catalogue.

Included here are candid and professional photographs of William S. Burroughs, in both black and white and color; photographs of William S. Burroughs and friends, including Alan Ansen, Sinclair Beiles, Bill Belli, Paul Bowles, Gregory Corso (with an autograph letter signed, on verso), Kells Elvins, Allen Ginsberg, Bruce Holbrook, Tim Leary, Fabrizio Mandadori, Harold Norse, Julius Saforaso, Ian Sommerville and Carl Weissner; photographs taken during the 1960s of street scenes in Tangier, Gibraltar, New York, Paris, London, South America and St. Louis; black and white photographs taken of photo collages, newspaper and magazine clippings and scrapbooks; portraits of William S. Burroughs and others cut vertically in two; and a series of photographs of a television set, in a Plaza Hotel room. Most photographs date to the mid 1960s. The researcher should also search the Library's on-line catalog for other collections of photographs by and of Burroughs.
