CARE
In this packet you’ll find tips, books we love, and activities all about showing care. Caring means paying attention to the needs of others (as well as your own) and then doing something to help. Explore more at nypl.org/afterschool.

BOOKS WE LOVE
These books give us examples of how to show care to others and to ourselves. To check them out, place a hold online at nypl.org or call Ask NYPL (917-275-6975). If you are at a branch, ask a librarian how to place a hold. Books marked with a ☐️ are available as e-books.

Show Me a Sign

QUICK TIPS
• Show care for yourself by taking your feelings and your goals seriously. In a journal, write down your hopes and dreams for the future and how you will accomplish them.
• Make mini care packages for people in your life who need cheering up. Use an old shoebox or other cardboard box and fill it with small items that will make them feel better. Include a note telling them that you care about them!
SHOW CARE IN VIRTUAL SPACES

I know we need to stay muted on video calls... but you can still show your classmates you CARE by waving these Classmate Cheer Signs in your next virtual class!

Decorate the signs below with whatever art materials you have on hand. Then cut them out and tape a popsicle stick or pencil to each for easy waving. You can even put them in an envelope and pass them along to your friends the next time you see them in person. We can always use a bit of cheer!
SHOW CARE THROUGH FOOD

Food is one thing that brings people together. On birthdays and holidays and during family dinners, times of illness, and more, we use food to connect us with the ones we love. In the space below, write down a recipe that you know how to make that would make someone else feel cared for, or write a recipe that has special meaning for you and your family.
